Your Composite Chart

A composite chart is simply a horoscope made up of the midpoints between the natal charts of two different persons. What results is a new horoscope that describes the interface between the two personalities: the shoreline where one leaves off and the other begins. Like any coastline, it may be even and easygoing at one point and convoluted and forbidding at another. And, like any shore, it is subject to fair and stormy weather. This astrological "weather" is the repeating transits of the planets.

Watching these transits, you can spot a host of intricacies in your relationship that you likely did not know were there. Once spotted, you have the opportunity to take better advantage of what is already going for you and more effectively grapple with problems that were hidden or only partially-revealed before.

Building on Success

Feelings of mutual plenty abound if you're willing to fall into that welcome space. Your ambitions and potentials seem to dovetail just right when you're working together and share a joint vision. You'll benefit even if you just let the moment drift, but seizing onto it will get you a lot more mileage.

Experience Control

A relationship is defined not only by its generally accepted boundaries, but by the limits of them, how far they can be stretched. What comprises going too far to either or both of you? What do you think you just can't quite accomplish? Reflection on and recognition and respect of your individual limits allows you each to retain them without always having to share them.

Manage Emotional Conservation

It's a good time for tending to mutual work and finance matters as there's increased general support for what you do -- not enough to make you famous by yourselves, but certainly added encouragement to get you there under your own steam. Positive reinforcement is like having a second engine driving your vessel.

Keeping the relationship new involves making it that way, and putting your toes into untried waters and going for the surprise option is definitely the road to fresh air right now. The trick is to avoid expectations, except for change itself, and give whatever pops up a chance to prove itself, integrate itself into your experience together.

Ideas for Change

There is a point where you meet and decide on the larger issues of the generations you come from, the mutual background to the specific relationship you share. Those are the necessities that drive and control your physical and social environment -- how are these part of you and how do you jointly deal with them, plot your own course through them? Issues to touch on today, refresh your joint strategy.

Experience Self

This week or so every year sees some of the usual support for who you are together seem to fade away in favor of what you do individually or even with other working relationships. It's a good time to let things drift like you were at the outer limits of your orbit or your radio reception and wait until the signal gets clearer again.

Feelings of Acceptance Arise

It's easy to be personable right now, as quiet support says yes to your rhythms in subtle ways you may not even pick up on except to notice that you're a little more comfortable in your shoes. Communication runs easy and commentary pleases whether it's just everyday chatter or something much more intimate and meaningful.

Successful Plan

A quiet moment of mutual reinforcement is welcome here, when you together seem to fit particularly well into your surrounding circumstances, allowing you to go with the flow without even noticing you're doing it. Just enjoy your mutual orbit and the natural forces which favor your presence in the same spot.

Public Interest

Disagreement upon where interesting new change meets inappropriate or dangerous directions can make disputes break out more harshly than they might over smaller things. Short temper or intolerance spring from real feelings of insecurity and mismatched pacing, so be willing to pull back and take progress a little slower in the interest of resolution and harmony.

Public Control

The urge to engage in power play at this moment can be a little intimidating, but it's based on the fear of losing out to impossible odds. Trying to manipulate them in your favor results in a downward spiral, as you need each other to turn the corner and find more comfortable situations. Stay the course.

Work With Ideas

Sometimes you agree famously and other times you don't even notice you're on the same track. This is one of those latter occasions when it neither occurs to you to differ or to agree, since neither seems an issue. You're moving according to plan, so you have your eyes on the ball, not on the announcer analyzing the game.

Working Insights

Sometimes the best way to break out of the box is to simply slip out of the wrapping without tearing the packaging. Your joint ability for subtle yet original approaches is matched by your diplomacy and skill in sensing their acceptability and exploiting it for the good of all. A light spice provides all the kick you need.

Strong Statement

Arguments can be in store when stored-up energy gets blocked or there is uncertainty about actions already in progress. Like trying to check your swing on a bad pitch, your systems are in conflict but you can still cooperate to save the situation. Whatever you do, don't take it personally, just unite to meet the challenge.

Loving Act

Sometimes even the sweetest things cloy, or you can't immediately get what you want, while what you don't want is all around you. Don't let it get you all cramped up, as this twice-monthly moment will move on soon enough. Particularly, don't argue about it, because it's not really either of your fault. No blame.

When enough is enough and plenty is plenty, you tend not to see just how full your cup is. Why? Because it's not empty, nor is it overflowing, just properly filled to satisfaction. So who would notice? Sometimes it's nice just to know you are proceeding along nicely on your expected growth curve. Enjoy the moment.

Building Discipline

There are moments when a relationship is more than an active dynamic, it's also something you can lean on. That's in part reinforced by outside events that make you glad you have the mutual protection with someone comfortably but actively watching your back. When you know what to expect, you can take the time to savor it.

Physical Conservation Arises

The more quietly modest you are in your opinion and your creativity, the more attractive your match will be this year, especially to those of a more conservative bent. Classic tastes and well-tested amusements outline your sense of history and grasp of the essentials. It adds a little age, but a lot of clout.

Preserve Discipline

There's lots of environmental support for you this year, from friends and colleagues, especially to the extent that you continue on a fairly predictable path. When the world is comfortable with what you're presenting, so are you, and it helps solidify the essence of the relationship. Steady as she goes really works.

Emotional Progress Arises

Requirements at home or work may get in the way of personal needs and attention, so don't depend on getting everything you need until you've gotten necessities taken care of and out of the way. If your timing seems off, write it off to having to let others have their priorities attended to -- fair enough, sometimes.

This time of the lunar month reminds you of your emotional commitment here, perhaps even sparking off a twinge or two of duty and recognition of why you're involved together. It can also make unresolved issues come up which are at the heart of what you need to learn by being together, the nature and sometimes burden of the relationship.

This is one of two days in the lunar month when you may really not agree on what your plan ought to be or just how to implement it. The choice should be obvious.

Simple explanations are best, and so are relationships. So often you find that less is more and you can go a lot further if you are both very clear about where you stand and what you share. The more radically simple the formula, the more you can creatively push it. Define what you both need here and now, then apply it everywhere.
